

Darkfield micrograph of coiled DLPC myelins in water at room temperature. Image courtesy of Ling-Nan Zou (Nagel group, James Franck Institute, University of Chicago).

A one-day workshop bringing together researchers with an interest in soft condensed matter to discuss their work and explore collaborations, sponsored by the The New England Section of the American Physical Society, the Institute of Materials Science and Polymer Program, University of Connecticut, and the Center for Cell Analysis & Modeling, University of Connecticut Health Center.

THE 32nd NEW ENGLAND WORKSHOP ON

Complex fluids

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 2007

8:45 am - 5:00 pm

at the University of Connecticut, Storrs

The invited speakers are

- M. L. Kilfoil (McGill)
- S. A. Koehler (WPI)
- M. Rubinstein (UNC)
- C. W. Wolgemuth (UCHC)
- M. Wyart (Harvard)

The workshop will also feature a poster session and a session of 5-minute "sound bite" talks at which all participants are encouraged to highlight results from their current research. Breaks for lunch and coffee will facilitate the exchange of ideas.

There will be a $15 charge per person.

Organizers:

Andrey Dobrynin
860.486.9061
avd@ims.uconn.edu

Greg Huber
860.679.4209
huber@uchc.edu

